

ABOLITION OF DEATH SENTENCE FOR POLITICAL OFFENDERS

Cardinal Owen McCann, Archbishop of Cape Town, noted (23/5/83) that the Southern African Catholic Bishops' Conference had sought presidential clemency for six men condemned to death and that Pope John Paul II asked for the abolition of the death sentence, especially in the case of those found guilty of political offences.